PBG Builders Named General Contractor of the Year and Presented Four Awards for Projects

Nashville, TN – PBG Builders, Inc. of Goodlettsville, was named 2013 General Contractor of the Year and received four additional awards from Associated General Contractors of Tennessee, Middle Tennessee Branch (AGC), at the organization’s recent annual Build Tennessee Awards program.

General Contractor of the Year recognition is the highest honor presented to a general contracting company by AGC. It is the second time PBG Builders has been recognized with the honor. In addition, PBG won AGC Build TN Awards for LP Field Fan Enhancements and Rolfe Alumni Hall at Meharry Medical College and Build Tennessee Awards of Merit for improvements at Clarksville-Montgomery County Regional Airport, and for 17 South Briar Hollow Lane in Houston.

These awards are the latest honors recognizing PBG Builders for excellence. In 2011, PBG was recognized as General Contractor of the year and won two Platinum Awards for its projects. In 2009, PBG won the National Construction Safety and Excellence Award presented by AGC of America. Also in 2009, PBG received a Platinum Award for its renovation work on the Tennessee Residence from the Middle Tennessee Branch of AGC.

“PBG’s mission is quite simple: integrity, relationships and leadership,” said Tim Prow, President of PBG Builders, Inc. “We strive to exceed each client’s expectations while completing projects on schedule and within budget. We have great respect for our clients and the trust they place in us.”

PBG Builders, Inc. was established in 1991. Since then, the company has completed commercial, institutional, and industrial projects with budgets ranging from $25,000 to $30 million for clients throughout Tennessee. Its many landmark projects include the renovation and historic restoration of Tennessee Residence; construction of the Conservation Hall at the Tennessee Residence, residence halls and fine arts center at Martin Methodist College, Ft. Negley Visitors Center, the library at East Tennessee State University, the Tennessee Titans Training Facility, and Antioch High School. For additional information, visit www.pbgbuilders.com
